Choose Todoist If...

- You mainly need a simple, reliable task list
- You want something you can master in an hour
- You are primarily a solo user managing daily todos
- You live in a mobile-first workflow
- You want clean, distraction-free task management

Choose Notion If...

- You want to combine notes, docs, tasks, and databases in one place
  - You run a team or community that shares knowledge
  - You want to build dashboards, wikis, and project hubs
  - You plan to connect automation tools like N8N
  - You need flexible views of your data (table, board, calendar, gallery)

Can You Use Both?

Absolutely. Many Community Place members use Todoist for daily personal tasks and Notion as their business hub. The two tools complement each other well — and you can even automate between them using N8N workflows.

Community Place Recommendation

We use Notion as the central hub for all Community Place operations — guides, member resources, project tracking, and knowledge base. Notion's flexibility makes it ideal for building a community platform that grows with you.
